

One Minute (Modern Plays)

The new play by the Royal Courts writer-in-residence When you close your eyes and you think about your home, what do you think about? Robert Evans is new to the police force, and his enthusiasm for the case is keener than that of his cynical colleague Gary Burroughs. They're both looking for a missing child. But as the mother, Dr Anne Schults, wants to know, when does missing become presumed dead? Simon Stephens new play is a disquieting portrait of the many lives that are united in the single moment it takes for a child to disappear. Praise for Simon Stephens: A major new voice in British Theatre - Scotsman; Herons is filled with a sense of life's miraculous potential. It deals with damaged characters yet is imbued with a poetic lyricism - Guardian
